Today: Admin, then more Tour Blog and Critique

- First blog post due tonight at midnight.
- Don't forget to click 'Publish' in the upper right hand corner
- Due Sunday at midnight: 2 critiques of another Aesthetics Exploration post from this semester. Critique 2 posts that have zero or one other critique (eventually, all posts will end up with two critiques). Read the post in detail. Enter your critique as a comment. Critiques must be specific. List one or more strengths of the post, and one suggestion for improvement, often best phrased as a question: "why did you choose..."
We will talk more about critique a bit later in the semester.
Zack Jack Weaver Guest Lecture Feb 8 during class. Practicing product designer, will talk about process and critique considerations.
- Some details of posting mechanics:
 - Adding media
 - Don't upload videos, instead make link to video first item in post; video will then show up as featured image with play button.
 - Every post needs a featured image.
 - Choose categories on the right. Default is 'Student Work'. TA will correct categories also.
 - Tag away! Use tags freely.
 - Questions?

Workshops

In addition to workshops in ITLL

https://itll.colorado.edu/index.php/courses_workshops/skill-building_workshops/ and Idea Forge
<http://www.colorado.edu/ideaforge/workshops>, consider TAM workshops:
